More Than Memories

The good times we've shared,
Friends, smiles, and laughter.
The dreams that we've made,
To be remembered long after.
After it is over and some of us move on,
After it has ended and the school year is gone.

The sad times we've had together,
The tears, pain, and sorrow.
The things that hurt us deeply,
But finally helped us grow.
All the bits and pieces of our lives, we never will forget.
The decisions right or wrong, WE made, we never will regret

Others tell us these times will be just memories,
As we travel near and far.
But we know now they're more than memories,
They're what made us who we are.

The 1986-87 school year brought many changes at Prairie View. One great change was the coming of a new Senior class. Our class soon realized that along with the glory of being a Senior there came responsibilities and a certain sadness. We no longer had to look up to the Seniors because we were the Seniors. It felt good to have others looking up at us. We may not have always set the greatest examples, but we tried to do things we could take pride in so others would want to follow our lead.

Throughout the year we bound together and became closer friends than ever before. The best part of being a member of our class was the feeling that we were all one. Any person would stand up for one of their friends, listen to a friend with a problem and try to help. Everyone considered a fellow Senior a friend. There were no cliques, no one thought better of themselves than the rest of the class. Our Senior year made us life-long friends, people who could understand one another.

Part of the closeness was a result of another change at PV. By far, our Senior year was the most-spirited year spent in high school. Students and faculty pushed for more school spirit and the Seniors along with the underclassmen came together and made it happen. The Seniors were involved in many activities (sports, FFA, FHA, Forensics, etc.) and helped lead the way in the promotion of spirit. It felt good to take pride in our class and in our school. I'm glad we were there to help PV spread its spirit. I feel this was a major accomplishment. The students helped change the way people think of Prairie View. The Seniors are glad to have been a part of the change. We hope the years to follow bring even more spirit.

Now, one year later, we have gone. We no longer share the hallways and classes with one another. Our time is spent going to college, working and just living our lives. As we face the world and struggle to make our dreams come true, we will always remember the time spent at PV. The times we shared with each other and those still in school will be precious pieces of our past kept alive in our memories.

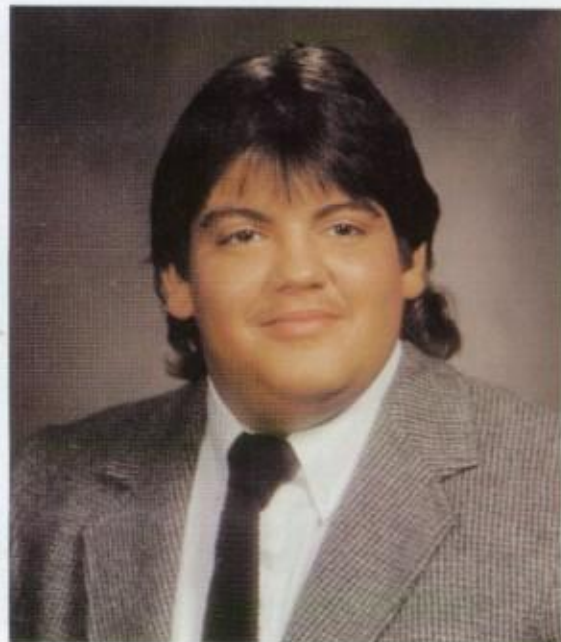

On behalf of the Senior class of 1987, I wish the best of luck to those remaining at PV. We hope the feelings of friendship which existed for us will be there for you. Spend the time you have now being friends, not enemies. Share your spirit and take pride in yourselves. Learn from the mistakes you make and grow from them as we did.

To the Seniors of 87, I wish happiness, fortune and all the luck you need to make your greatest dreams become reality. May all of you get what you want from life. I hope even though we are separated by distance, our friendships remain strong. I feel lucky and very proud to have been a part of the class of 1987.

Yes, We Care Teachers Hold Picnic

On Friday, September 12 the PV teachers held a school wide picnic. The events during the picnic were tug-of-war, a three-legged sack relay race, a balloon motto scramble, and a class motto body formation.

Overall it was a very exciting event. The whole student body would like to thank the faculty for arranging it, especially Terry Cox, Pam Baugh, Carolee Bollinger and Becky Morgan.

Robert Tolly hollers "Go Sophomores!"

Mrs. Nancy Tyrell (top) and Mrs. Becky Morgan (bottom) enjoy the festivities at the YES WE CARE picnic.

One Day at a Time

I thought it was just a stomach ache. It wasn't. The incredible pain I experienced on the second Sunday in December, 1983, was not your everyday gut ache. I thought I was going to sign off right then and there. Luckily, I didn't. What it turned out to be was appendicitis. And the incidents that accompanied the extracting of the organ itself were memories I will never forget.

I spent most of the Sunday on the floor in the kitchen, non-stop tears running down my pitiful, 14 year-old face. My mother finally called the doctor in Paola and gave him my symptoms: pain in my right side, no appetite, and nausea. He seemed concerned. Weren't we all? I was rushed, well, not exactly "rushed" to Paola. The fog was extremely dense, so we had to move at a turtle's pace.

They ran many tests on me at the Miami County Hospital — from one end of the body to the other. My blood test showed that my white cell count (or red, I can't seem to recall the color) was at an all-time high. At that point I could have cared less what they did to me. I just wanted the excruciating pain to find another body to pick on!

The pain intensified on the long trip to Olathe Community Hospital. Evidently they figured I needed surgery. More tests were run there, plus an X-ray had to be taken. First of all, they couldn't locate Mr. Vein for my IV and they had to put this huge chunk of ice on my arm so he'd stick out. Second, they left me in the X-ray room by myself for what seemed like an eternity.

My surgery was scheduled for 1 a.m. I wasn't necessarily frightened about the plan to cut a gash in my tummy, but more the fact that it was so late at night. I thought surely my surgeon would be tired and fall asleep!

I spent four nights in the hospital. Not only was I in pediatrics (probably the oldest child), but I was also being looked after by an intern who looked like she was about 18. I didn't care for her too much. Especially after she yanked out the tiny plastic grenade-shaped drainage tube. She did it with no remorse. You can imagine. Being in pediatrics was no joy-ride either. I was completely forgotten. One time I called for a nurse to come help me get up. I had to tinkle. She arrived promptly to assist me, but also departed just as fast. I was stranded! I was so weak from surgery that I couldn't get up. I pulled the cord that rang for the nurse several times. Nothing. Nobody came. Needless to say, sometime later, I was rescued by a very apologetic nurse. I was also relocated, down the hall to the post-surgery ward.

My stay in the hospital seemed grossly drawn-out and very boring. A day consisted of looking at food, watching TV, and taking shots of Demoral, my beloved pain medicine. I also slept quite a bit. What brightened my mundane days were cards, slowers, gifts, and phone calls and visits from family and friends. You don't realize how much people care about you until you're flat on your back in a hospital bed.

My mom and dad had told me I could eat anything and anywhere I wanted the day I got out. I chose Mc Donalds and my very favorite gourmet meal: Big Mac, fries and a coke. I barely nibbled on any of it. I probably ate a grand total of four french fries. I can remember that depressing me so much!

I got out on a Thursday. the following Monday I went back to school. I must have explained my story a thousand times, and that was just to Angie! It seemed like I had been away from Prairie View and my freshman class for months. I had been gone a week. Still it took me quite a while to adjust, not only to school, but also to coming off the Demoral. I was used to at least three daily doses of the pain medicine, so when they cut me off completely from it, I stressed out. Luckily I adjusted, but only after a frantic outburst over my jeans not fitting, and me thinking I was fat. I remember running into my closet, sitting there and crying for hours. It took quite a while for my abdomen muscles to strengthen and become flat, so my jeans would fit.

I still have a small scar on the right side of my abdomen from the incision and also this lurking fear of being left helpless in a hospital bathroom.

Throughout the 1986-87 school year, the home economics department covered a wide array of course topics. All aspects of life including personal appearance, microwave usage, home repair, dating, grooming, sewing, creative stitchery and insurance were covered.

Some of the year's highlights were the independent living students washing babies, the marriage class taking a field trip to a restaurant to practice manners, the independent living class cooking wild game, and students studying apartment hunting.

A personal highlight for Mrs. Carolee Bollinger, marriage teacher, occurred on February 14 when she married Mr. Charles Dorton.

The 1986-87 school year was a very busy and exciting year for the PV Vocal Music department. On Saturday, April 4, 1987 they took 15 solos and two small ensembles to the District Music Festival at Olathe South High School. Of these, eight solos and both ensembles competed at the State Music Festival in Winfield, Kansas on Saturday, April 25, 1987.

Those who attended were: Stephanie Duke, Jonee Hardesty, Colette Hardesty, Mary Moylan, Jimmy Farris, Lori Coffin, Michael Bishop, Angela Dunlop, Paula Berglund, Anne Tatum, Celeste Capehart, Tally Jenkins, Lisa Marchand, Melinda Long, Lisa Baker, Audra Thoden and Rochelle Kester.

Seven people received superior ratings at District: Matt Teagarden, Kelly Burger, Jill Lowe, Audra Thoden, Celeste Capehart, Joe Jackson and Gregg Polley.

Concer Choir also participated in State Music Festival for large ensembles on Tuesday, April 7, at the Kansas City Community College. They received the top honor of a "I" rating.

These were only a few of the events that kept the Vocal Music department busy. School concerts and community events were also a part of their busy schedule.

This year the instrumental department acquired several additions. One addition was a new instructor, Mr. Nate Wisdom. He came to PV ambitious and ready to improve the band.

The band was involved in many activities throughout the year. Fall event highlights included marching at PV's home football games, PSU Band Day, Fall Band Concert, and the American Royal Parade in Kansas City. Auditions for District Band were also held. Lori Coffin and Jodi Long qualified to attend the District Concert in Iola. In December the Band entertained at the PV Christmas Concert. During the third nine weeks the Band traveled to the grade schools to perform. Then spring came and so did the Spring Band Concert, Contest, the Fine Arts Banquet and graduation.

The stage band also had a busy year. Included in their schedule was the Fall Band Concert, the Christmas Concert, Oak Park Mall, Osawatomie State Hospital trip, and Spirit Crowning. They also played at the Buffalos home basketball games. Stage band rounded out their year with the Spring Concert and the Fine Arts Banquet.

Another new edition to the instrumental department was instructional piano. Instructor, Ms. Bonnie Wilhoit, was very pleased with this addition. She felt the students she had really progressed. Several students took pieces to contest. Leigh An Stainbrook and Joe Jackson both received I ratings. Superior ratings went to Lisa Baker, Jennifer Kriley, Susan Sargent, and Michelle Meitler.

The Culture Club travelled to downtown Kansas City November 1, for an event very few students from PV had experienced.

The event was the ballet, performed by the State Ballet of Missouri at the Lyric Theatre.

Before the ballet, the group of students, parents, faculty and guests had dinner at J J Tippins.

The Culture Club's trip to the Country Club Plaza was a tremendous success.

When they arrived, everyone shopped, walked around the plaza and rode in horse-drawn carriages until it was time to eat.

At the Hibatchi Japanese Steakhouse, diners watched as their meal was prepared at their table. Others ate at Go Jos, another restaurant on the plaza.

After their meal, there was plenty of time to enjoy the plaza lights.

Publications

The 1986-87 year was a happy one for the publications class. We had many close calls with getting pictures on time, meeting yearbook deadlines, and surviving the trip to the Graphic. But we always managed to pull things together and do the best we could with what we had.

I've truly enjoyed the last year in journalism. It has been a mixture of happiness, sadness, pressures and rewards. The staff could not have been better. Every person was willing to do his share of the work and everyone strived for the best possible quality. I am happy and proud to have had the chance to work with these people.

Sometimes we received complaints because we forgot something in the paper or someone didn't receive enough coverage. But considering we only had one hour a day to do all that we did, I feel we did an excellent job. The praise and compliments we received throughout the year were hard earned.

Now that the year is over, I have to say good-bye to the journalism staff and the advisor, Marilyn Dechir. She gave us the freedom to be on our own in the classroom, yet she demanded quality work and helped instill a sense of leadership and responsibility in all of us. She taught us to take pride in our work regardless of what those around us might be saying. Ms. Dechir was much more than our teacher, she was a friend. Good luck Ms. Dechir in getting all that you want and all that you deserve from life.

To Marilyn Dechir and the entire staff, thank you for your hard work and dedication. I will miss all of you; but, I will always remember the times we spent writing, printing pictures, struggling to meet deadlines and just being friends.

The 1986 football season came to a close Friday, November 4. Although the Buffalo's record was only 2-7 for 1986, the team did a great job! The Buffalos were a whole new team in '86. They accomplished their main goal of the season. They did not lose games by large spreads of points, and they won a few games. The 1986 Buffalos only broke the ice this season. There will be good talent next year, and the Buffalos will compete in the Frontier League.

The team would like to say thank you to coaches Leisure, Baker, and Browning. They cooperated with us, and never gave up on us.

Homecoming

Homecoming 1986 Go Hollywood

The 1986 Homecoming was a night to remember. The evening began with Ben Kirk and Tammy Golladay being crowned King and Queen. Their royalty included Anne Tatum and Jason Warrick, Jennifer Coones and Walter Vandeventer, Angie Harris and Steve Stoker. Following coronation, the PV Booster Club gave a special guest performance for the fans.

Halftime activities were a dynamic performance by the Drill Team to "Vienna Calling" and a variety of music played by the PV Marching Band. To top it all off, the Booster Club launched hundreds of balloons into the crisp night air.

The record turnout of fans was not disappointed. The PV Buffalos trampled the Baldwin Bulldogs with a final score of 16-7. The excited cheering section rushed to the field to congratulate the team before going in to the dance.

The "Go Hollywood" dance was a huge success. The students danced till midnight to the sounds provided by Scotland Yard Music and Lights Co. Decorations included a replica of the famous Hollywood hill which many dancers posed under for pictures.

Wrap-Up

Dana Teagarden

Success depends on your yardstick. If winning ball games is your measure then this past girls' basketball season was not a success. But if your measure for success included improvement in all areas, then the '86-'87 Lady Buffs were one of the most successful PV teams in years.

Coach Kinser also commented that this season went fast and was a lot of fun, but still contained several disappointments. Comparing returning stats last year to returning stats for next year, improvements were made in all areas. Team numbers more than tripled in six areas: Offensive and defensive rebounds, recoveries, assists, points and jump balls/blocked shots. The team rating dramatically improved and there will be twice as many returning lettermen next year. Along with these improvements went increases in free throw and field goal percentages.

Some other high points of the season included 21 girls out for the team, a win over Aquinas, a fourth place finish in the Trojan Tip-Off, and Dana Teagarden being chosen for All-Tourney second team, several close, hard played games, Dani Kinser moving into fifth on the single season list with 58 assists, and Dana Teagarden being chosen for Honorable Mention All-League.

The competition was broken into four categories: dressing up, going to the games, hall decorations and showing the most spirit at the pep rally. The days of the week were: backwards day, clash day, dress up day, oposite sex day and green and white day. The PV Booster club awarded 50 dollars to the Juniors who won the competition for the week.

The Spirit coronation was held between the JV and Varsity games. Walter Vandeventer and Paula Burglund were chosen as King and Queen. The evening came to an end with a dance featuring Muzik Machine.

Snowbound in April? It doesn't seem very likely to most of us. But for ten PV interrelated students and their sponsors, the unlikely became reality.

The group of 13 traveled to Fort Hays University for the 1987 State Basketball Tournament sponsored by the Special Olympics. The basketball team played two games on Friday and attended a dance later that night. To their surprise, after the dance they were told that a blizzard had set in and the rest of the weekend's games were canceled.

Though the interrelated team was unable to complete their competition at the State Basketball Tournament due to inclement weather causing a cancellation, they have taken part in many other athletic activities this year.

The volleyball team earned first-place honors at the state level and was chosen to compete in the Summer Games held in June. These games are a state-wide event hosted by Wichita State University.

In basketball, the team won their regional competition at Pittsburg, making them eligible for the tournament at Pittsburg, making them eligible for the tournament in Hays.

Track gave the athletes another chance to win honors and recognition as the boys' relay team ran at the KU Relays and received first, in addition to four students running at the NAIA Track Meet. The track team also competed at the Summer Games in their individual events.

In another sport, four students were chosen to be on the Kansas Ski Team.

Overall, the PV program has a continual record of success which earns the students and sponsors a great deal of recognition. "People don't realize how super our program is," stated Ms. Hoover. She said few schools have the quality program that PV has and that is why our program receives a large amount of state recognition. The state uses PV students in many of their activities because it knows they will be getting some of the best talent in the state. The activities the students participate in are privileges that they work hard to obtain.

By far the athletes have proven that dedication and determination can go a long way. All the honors and recognition the interrelated students receive for their hard work and success are well-deserved.

It was great to see so many students take an interest in the recent musical 7 Brides for 7 Brothers. The combination of a talented cast and a hardworking crew helped make the musical a huge success.

The 37 cast members thrilled the audience as they brought their characters to life. Outstanding vocal performances on the parts of Stephanie Duke (Milly) and Steve Kinder (Adam) kept the crowd entertained, while the acting talents of Angela Dunlop (Alice) and Michael Bishop (Gideon) brought sounds of laughter. Though Milly, Adam and Gideon had their share of dramatic encounters, the efforts of the brides and brothers kept the musical light-hearted and fun. Between Dennis Ross (Caleb), Gregg Polley (Frank), and Michael Bishop's long-john scene and Matt Teagarden's (Daniel) black eye, the audience fell in love with the Pontipee family. However, the audience wasn't the only ones falling in love. The courting, kidnapping and wedding scenes were some of the best.

Though acting and singing talents dominated the show, many more skills were necessary for the completion of 7 Brides for 7 Brothers. Pam Baugh made set building a class project for her drama students. Many of them found out they enjoyed working backstage and joined the stage crew. A fifteen member stage crew spent a great deal of time working on sets, synchronizing lights and curtains, as well as helping actors through costume changes. The group accepted much of the responsibility of lighting and set changing and worked well together.

Of course, no musical could go on without music. the pit band, under the direction of Mr. Nate Wisdom, along with Mrs. Joyce Hardesty, piano accompanist, played the various melodies, ranging from square dances to love songs.

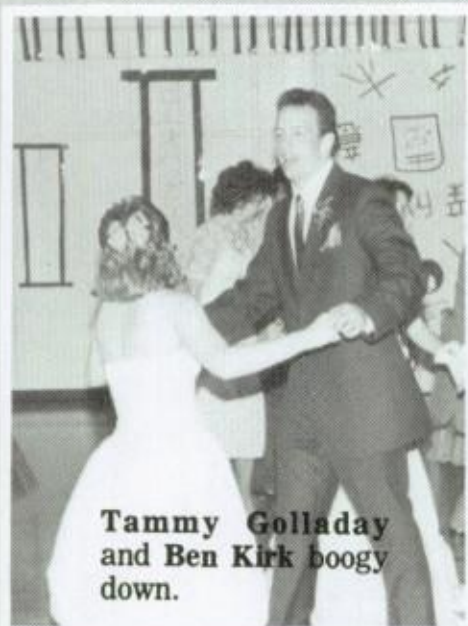

After hours of memorizing and rehearsing scene after scene, the individual and group efforts of everyone involved paid off. It was obvious the directors, Miss Bonnie Wilhoit, Mrs. Pam Baugh, and Mr. Nate Wisdom, did an excellent job of carefully choosing a cast full of talent. Congratulations to all of the cast, crew, band and directors who helped make 7 Brides and 7 Brothers one of the best productions PV has seen.

Seniors

Friends, Go Carts And Bumper Boats

Tammy Ernst

May 8, 9, 10 was a wild weekend for 41 seniors and their sponsors as they traveled to Branson, MO for senior trip.

The group set out at 4:30 Friday morning complete with raincoats and waterguns for the traditional water fights. By the time they rode for four hours, cold and wet, they were ready to call a truce.

After checking into their rooms at the Country Music Motor Inn, they went to Silver Dollar City for a day of rides and activities. Later that night they attended the Baldknobber's show, followed by pizza and a trip to the go cart track.

Saturday morning found the group at Sadie's Sideboard for a real country breakfast. During the morning and afternoon they had free time which they filled with walking around Branson, shopping, riding go carts and bumper boats, playing miniature golf and swimming. At the pool, the seniors had a blast as they sent Mr. Ron Shomaker and Mr. Vic Roche flying into the water. That night they loaded the bus and went to Eureka Springs, AK to see the Great Passion Play. Along the way, they stopped in Harrison, AK to eat at the Ramada Inn Restaurant.

After Sunday's breakfast, the group checked out of their rooms and went on one last spree. They played games, rode bumper cars and go carts and spent the last of their money before getting on the bus for the ride home.

Though the return trip seemed to take forever and the group was happy to finally get home, the weekend in Branson was a great deal of fun. Everyone enjoyed themselves and made many memories of friends, go carts and bumper boats.

Ron Schomaker, Vice Principal, takes the senior trip dip

Jessie Kinder spends a little money on Kellie Allen.

Seniors look their goofiest.

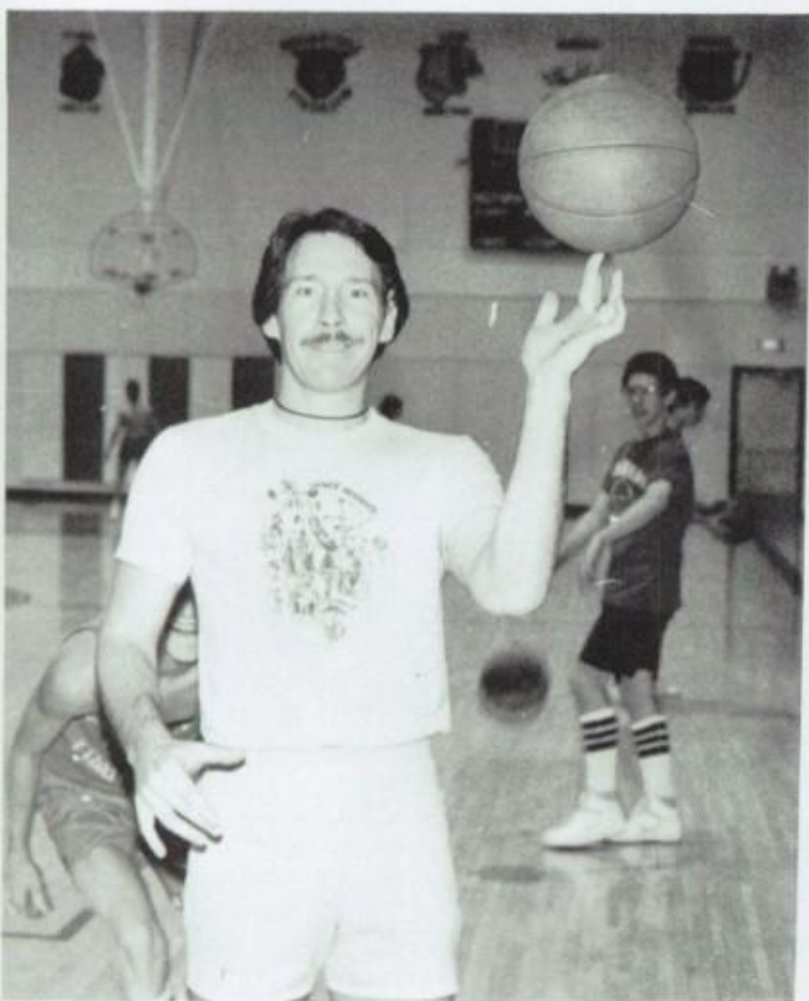

Tammy Ernst, Angela Simmons and Shelly Elliott look too cool.

Cowan Bowman, Brian Dubois and Doug Stwalley sightseeing.

Looks like Vic Roche got just a little out of line.

OUR FAITHFUL LEADERS

Friends, family and faculty:

As members of the audience today you are witnessing the end of an era in Prairie View's history — the graduation of the class of 1987. We may not have been the best, but we are the ONLY class of 1987 that PV will ever have.

I didn't know what to say when I started writing this speech, because there are no words that can express the way I feel. What can a person say to the people, friends, she has known for three years or thirteen years, when she knows her time of seeing these friends every day is over? I have known the people I am sharing the stage with for many years, and even though we have all waited a long time for this day to arrive, it isn't very easy to sit up here in front of our families and friends knowing that the way of life we have known for the last eighteen years will cease to exist in a few hours.

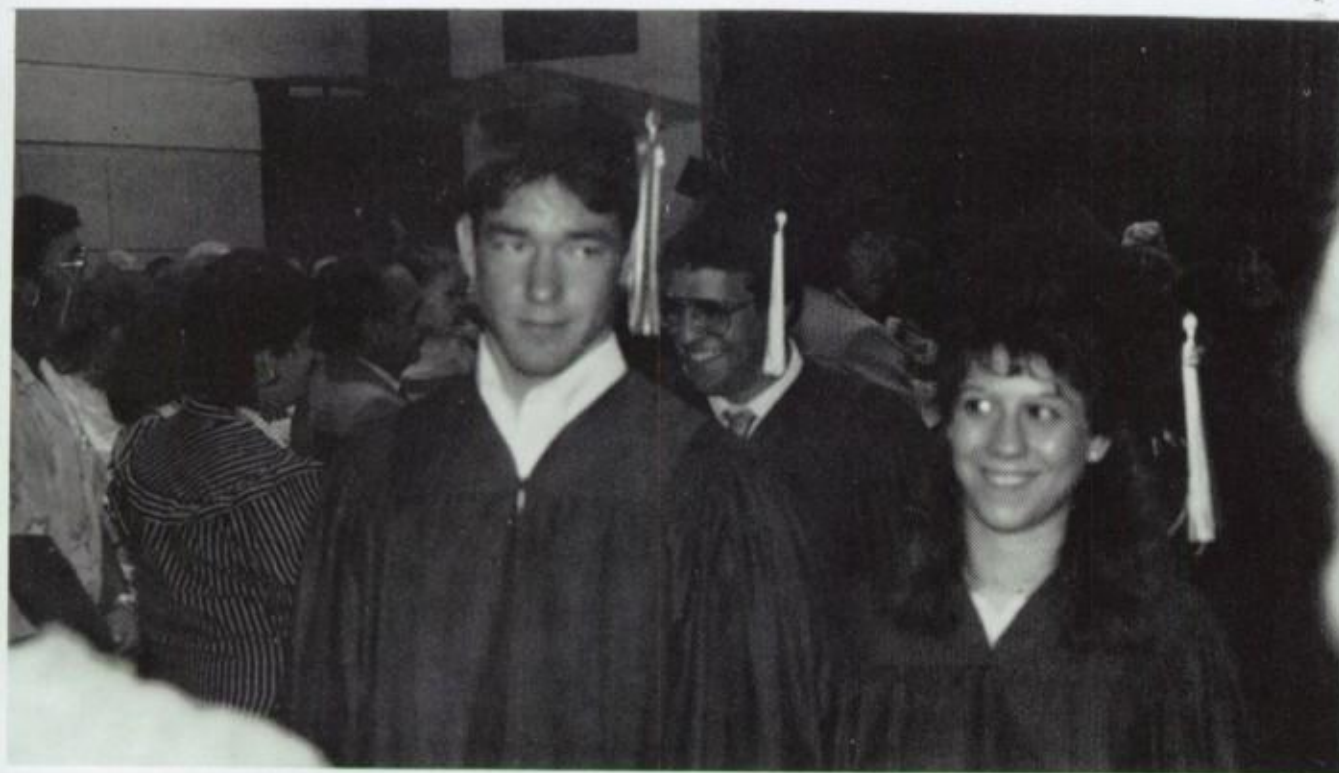

We have been together through Homecoming victories and losses, proms, weekends and extra-curricular activities. We have shared excitement and joy as well as sadness. Nothing can erase the memories we have made in high school, but after today, memories will be all that are left.

As we walk across the stage, it is our moment of glory. One we have worked hard to achieve. But it is also the last thing we will ever do together as a class. Tomorrow will be the beginning of our going our separate ways. Some of us will go to college, some to work, and some still haven't decided. But each of us will be entering the world on our own. It is frightening, and yet as we spread our wings and leave our safe nests we must remember that someone in the audience or on the stage is thinking of us and will be there if we should slip or fall.

To the graduate's friends, please continue to stand by us through the good times and the bad. We may change when we go our own ways, but our friendships with you will remain. To the parents and family, continue to love and care for us, but don't worry. We will make it on our own. With a little help and support, there isn't any obstacle we won't be able to overcome. And to the class of 1987, good luck! You have made our Senior year unforgettable in my mind and heart. I am proud to be a part of our class. Though we may not all be best friends, we are all close, and all of you mean a great deal to me. You have been a huge part of my life and I thank you for all the times we have shared. I wish all of you the happiness and success you deserve.

Our class has always been the kind to stick together and never give up. I know as we embark upon our new lives, none of us will give up. I have seen the things each of you are capable of. Don't give up, keep pushing forward and following your dreams. You and I are members of the class of 87. We have spent the last four years trying to convince the rest of PV that we are great. Now is our chance to prove that we know what we are talking about. I know this class well and I have faith in our abilities. When we set our minds on something, nothing can stand in our way. We WILL show the world we are great. Our new lives are just outside the door. It is up to us what we do with them. LIFE is ours to be what we make it. Let's learn from our successes and failures as we undertake the creating of a world we can be proud to claim as our own . . . the world of the class of 1987. It's waiting for us.

Thank you
Tammy Ernst,
Valedictorian

Graduation

My gown,
a glorious green,
draped loosely over my shoulders, tickling my legs with every step like soft spring grass.

My cap,
set back on my head,
secured with bobby pins.
My tassel brushes my face in perfect rhythm to Pomp and Circumstance.

My face,
lit up with a smile,
my eyes full of tears,
we finally made it after all these years.

Wanna Play?!

"Wanna Play" told of adolescence and puberty and the pains and joys experienced while going through it all.

The cast displayed scenes of how ordinary school was to them, how easy it was to fall in love with a computer instead of a girl, how friends and friendship change as we get older, the time when braces arrive, how you should follow your dreams and much more. The Jr. High Boys' Basketball Team's season came to an abrupt end on March 5 with a defeat at the hands of Baldwin, 63-37.

Overall, their season record stood at 3 and 6. Coach Vic Roche feels that the boys played well all season; however, they did have their ups and downs. Coach Roche also commented, "I feel the boys made good progress and I also feel if the boys will remain as a unit in the coming years, they could definitely help our basketball program on the senior high level."

STUDENTS HAVE A SAD DAY

It's not as bad as the title sounds. In fact it was a great deal of fun. April 24 was a special day at PV as the students and faculty enjoyed a SAD (Student Appreciation Day) time.

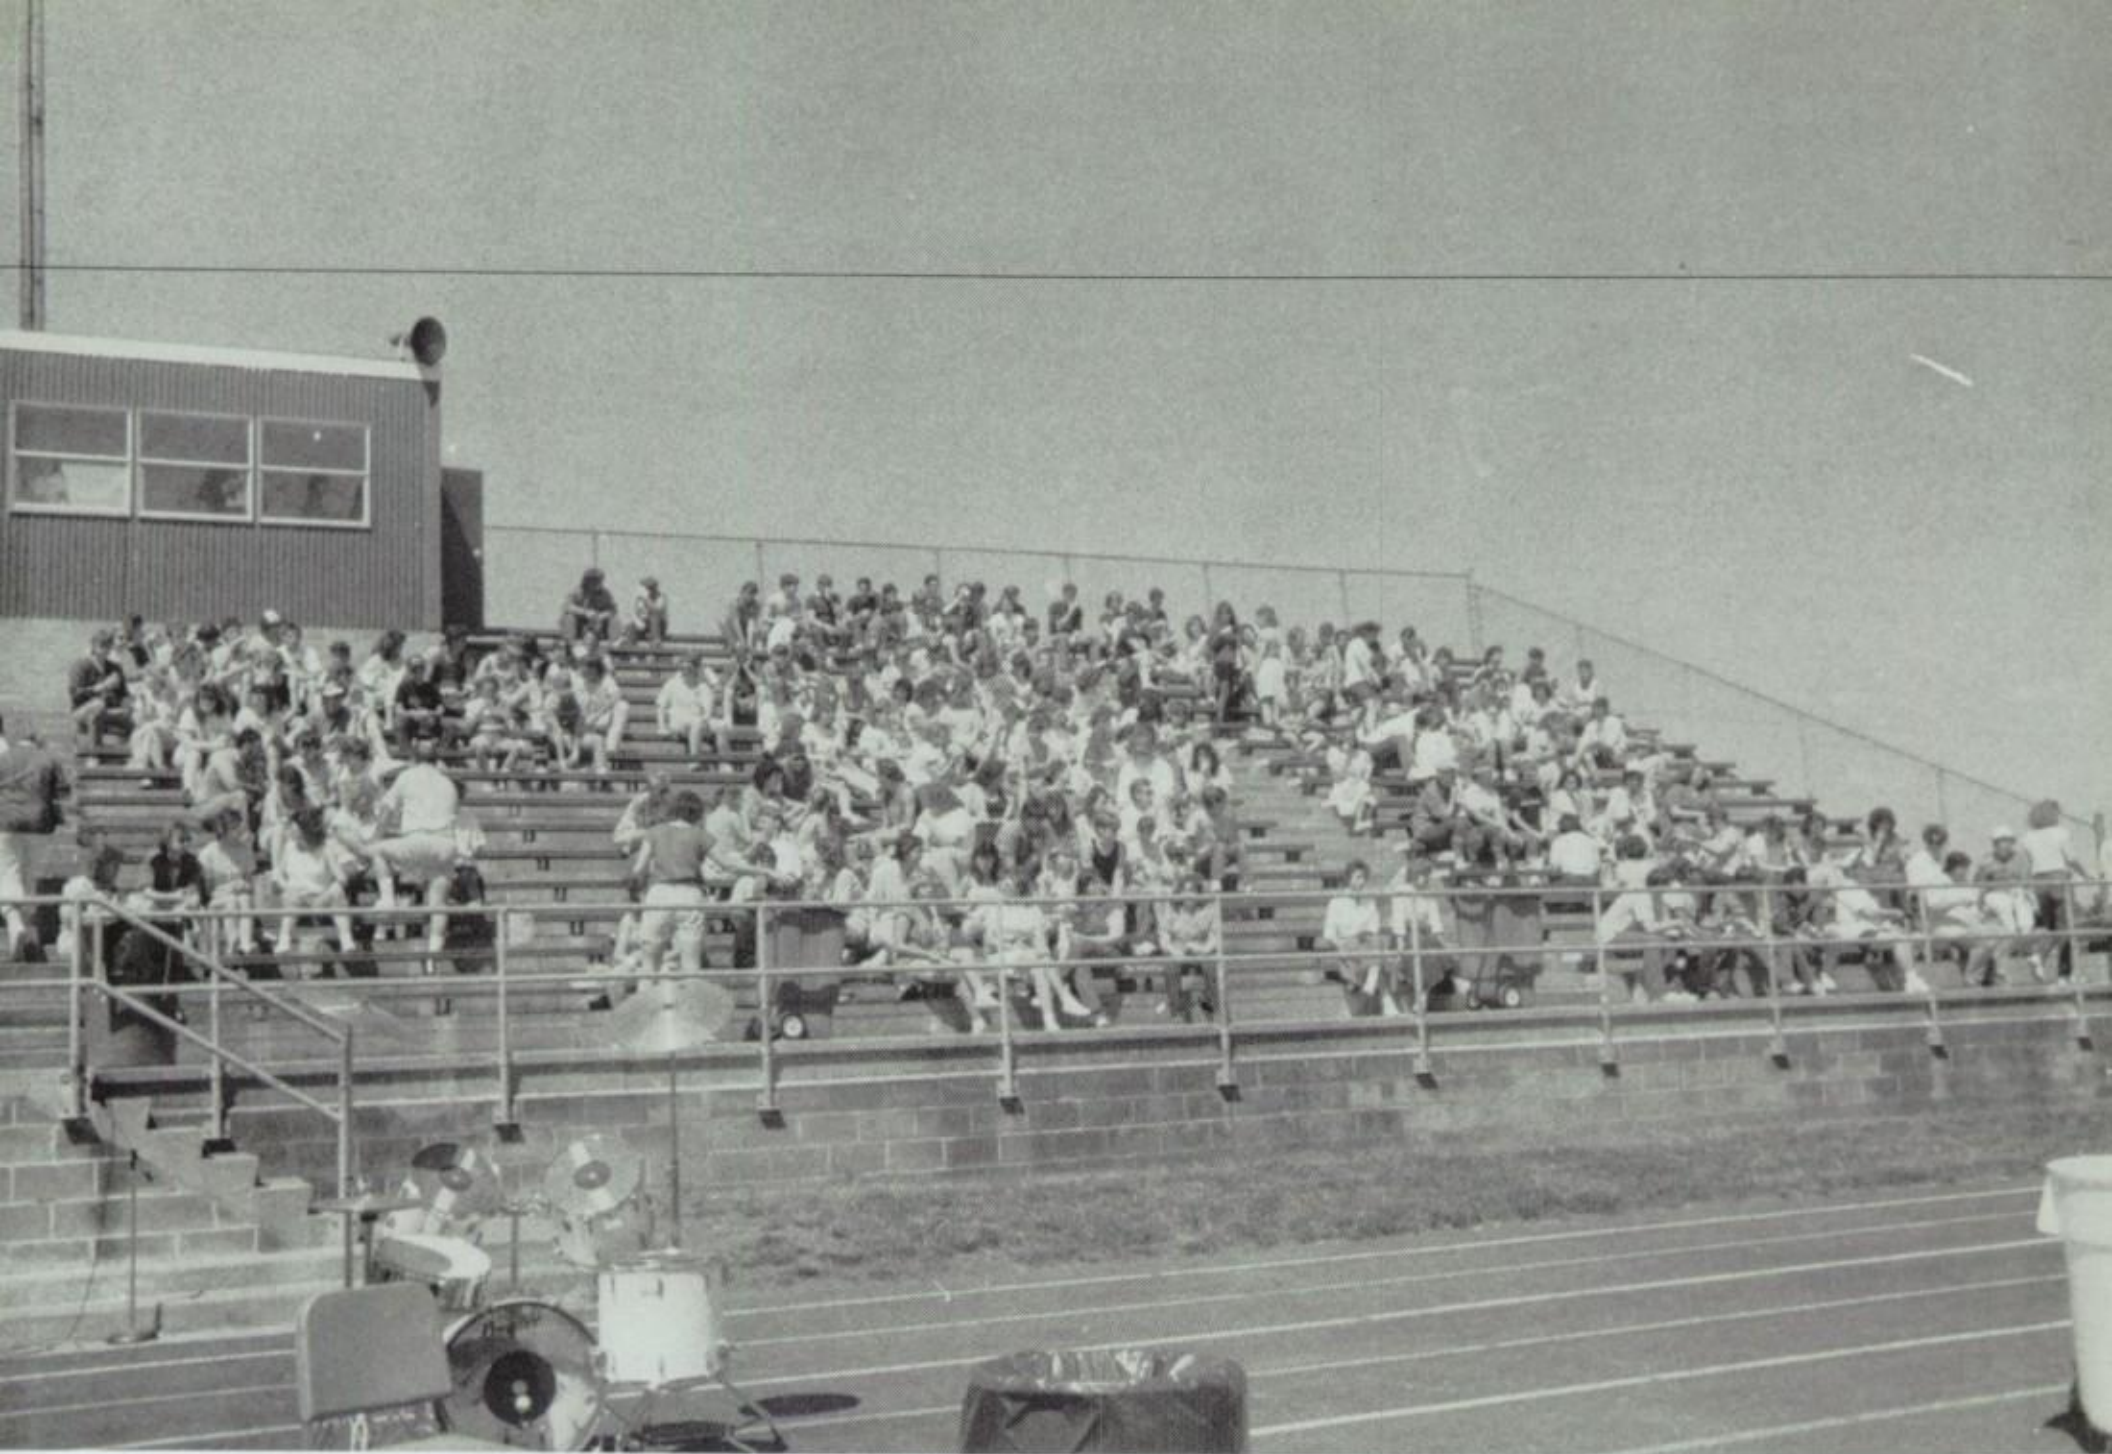

The entire school spent the afternoon competing in a number of activities which the faculty planned as a reward for PV students excellent behavior this year. The teachers also were in on the excitement, entering participants in the various competitions against the six classes.

Student and faculty representatives took part in competitions such as an egg drop to see which group could design a carton which when dropped from a plane would prevent the most eggs from breaking, lip sync contests, Wheel of Fortune rounds, and a Vanna White contest. Cheerleaders from each group kept the spirits high right up to the OBSTACLE COURSE.

It wasn't an average, every day course to say the least. Instead it consisted of a three-legged race through tires, a tricycle ride, a search for Lotto numbers in a tank of muddy water, a pie-eating contest, a walk on stilts, a pogo ball ride, a scooter race, an innertube relay, and a ladder/water event in which a person stood at the top of a ladder and poured water into a jar at the bottom until it reached a certain level.

Though it was called Student Appreciation Day, the day was enjoyable for everyone and the students would like to thank the faculty for getting involved and making it a day to remember.
